

Fog

When I wake up in the morning the dark fog is muttering.

It sulks around my window like my best friend's worst bad mood.

But when I creep out to play with her,
to chase her frowns away,

the sun's got there before me

And fills the sky all day.

Dave Ward

A large rectangular box containing ten horizontal lines, intended for writing a response or additional text.

